Person 1: Hi, I've been thinking about how unpredictable life is. Can we talk about it?

Person 2: Sure.

Person 1: I'm interested to hear your thoughts.

Person 2: smiling, Let's discuss.

Person 1: Can you share an aspect of your character's life that didn't go as planned?

Person 2: I always imagined that I would walk someday, every moment of my life was centered around that hope. I believed in myself and prayed for that moment to come, planning everything around it except for my relationships. Despite being in a state of disability, I still yearned for love and hoped someone would see beyond my condition. It's tough being disabled, but I saw walking as a symbol of a new beginning, a fresh start in life.

Person 1: smiling so What unexpected turn did your character face in their journey?

Person 2: I experienced many ups and downs regarding my ability to walk. There were moments when I doubted myself and then immediately prayed for a cure. However, when my parents confirmed that I couldn't walk anymore, it was deeply painful. It shattered the belief I had held onto for years, leaving me with the stark realization that walking was no longer possible.

Person 1: Then How did your character deal with the situation?

Person 2: I decided to simply go with the flow and let life unfold as it may. I intentionally distanced myself from God because I felt that being close to Him would only give me hope for a life I no longer wanted to believe in. It was a pivotal moment of turning away from faith and surrendering to whatever God and life had in store for me.

Person 1: So What impact did this twist have on their future plans?

Person 2: I abandoned all my future plans and embraced the philosophy of living in the moment. I realized that tomorrow's uncertainties could bring either good or bad, so it's best to focus on the present without worrying about what the future holds. This mindset is echoed in the Bible verse: "Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own."

Person 1: That's very deep, Did your character learn any lessons from this experience?

Person 2: Well, not exactly. Let me share a quote from the movie "Dada" that suggests having plans for the little things, being prepared for both success and failure, but letting life guide us for the major and big plans. Because not everyone can achieve greatness or success, but everyone can aim to be above average, right?
